My Dear Sir. I have received your letter of the 6th inst, communicating an expression of feeling on the part of the Whig General Comdone ma faithful and workmanlike manner, of good mittee of the City of New York, in respect to the severe attack by which I have been recently prostrated, and from which I still continue to

I will not trust myself in the attempt to respond to the kindness which prompted this action on the part of the Committee. It would only senew the emotions excited by the first perusal of your letter-emotions which caused me more pleasure, and at the same time more pain, than I have ever before experienced. To have been so affectionately remembered by the companions and friends who think with me on public affairs, was a sourse of joy to me sincere and deep beyoud the power of words to convey to you. But this sentiment only served to aggravate the regret with which I find myself even temporarily separated from such faithful alliances and genial associations; and constrained to be, for a while at least, an mactive, but not uninterested spectator

Go on vigorously, I beseech you, in the great work which you have commenced, in the hope of whose accomplishment millions of hearts beat in unison with yours. The good old cause again calls you into the field—the cause which has heen once-betrayed, but has never yet been stained with dishonor With a candidate who embodies your principles, and who will be false to forty years of public cervice if he is not true to them and to you, I believe that, with the blessing of that overrnling Pagyidence in whose hands are he destinies of nations as well as the ssues of life, you will achieve a more brilliant victory in the name of CLAY than you won un-

The Fairest Thing.

BY F. W. HAWLEY. Mother, in this bright bright world, Where all the beauteous things have bitte, Which of all these forms of light, Is the fairest thing on earth? Tell me, is it this sweet rose, With the rain-drops in each fold? Or the castle in the clouds.

Is it that resplendent bow, Spanning yonder forest green, With its softly blended tints, And its twin-bow dimly seen? Or you glorious setting sun, Like an angel's flashing eve. Looking from the brow of eve On the earth and sea and sky?

Pinnacled with burnished gold?

Beautiful, my boy are these! Wonderful, and lair, and bright! They are the gushings from the Fount Of all good and joy, and light; But the glorious sun hath set-Yonder colour's dull and gray-Thus all lovely things of earth Change, or perish, or decay !

Tell me, mother ! Is there naught Beautiful that shall not die. Like the crimson and the gold Fading from you changing sky? Yes, my child! The fairest thing Found in earth, or sea, or skies, Like its Everlasting Source, Never changes, never dies !

Suns must set, and bright bows pass, Skies must change to sallen gloom-Trees and beauteous flowers decay, Beauty moulder in the tomb! VIRTUE, lairest flower of earth. Brightest boon to mortals given, Blooms unchanged in sun and storm, For its natal place is Heaven!

Cattle Show.

The Cattle Show and Fair of the Penobscot Agricultural Society held in this city yesterday was a spirited affair, and passed off to the highest satisfaction of the multitude of persons present. The weather was clear, and at an early hour the extensive ranges of pens erected for the purpose were filled with cattle, many of them of the best breeds and in fine order. The num- prices that we can all afford to get an old Straw ber of working oxen was unusually large and of renewed as often as once a month, It would great excellence. The amount of Butter and create something of a revolution in the head gear fortification. They keep an armed ship there, Cheese was greater, we think, than usual, and of the ladies and gentlemen. So says the Bosthe quality excellent. There was a large col. ton Mad. lection of manufactured articles, and a greater workmanship.

The fruit department was well represented, and we wish every farmer in the county could have been present and witnessed the rich and varied specimens of apples that were exhibited. We have never seen finer specimens of apples at any of the Fairs we have attended in Massachusetts; and we doubt if any where these can be excelled Such was the opinion expressed yesterday by men acquainted in the fruit growing portions of New England. What we have to regret in this connection is, that so few farmers have taken that interest in this department which its importance justly merits. It is not for any fault in par climate or our soil that our market is not supplied with fruit of our own raising. This much is fully proved. In a tew years we shall have fruit enough in our county. Farmers find their interest in raising it. Confidence in its practicability is fully established by a multitude of proofs for a series of years.

The reports of the several committees of the Society, which we shall publish, will give a detuled view of the great interests of agriculture and manufactures in this county.

An address was delivered before the Society in the afternoon at the City Hall, to a large assembly, by Hon S. H. Blake of this city. It was an able exposition of the value of the agricultural productions of our country: and there were many suggestions of much practical utility t, our farming population. It was calculated throughout to show that although not now a practical farmer the speaker has an eye to the business, and observes the progress made and the means by which it may be promoted, very closely. Perhaps no higher complament cau be paid to it than to say that it met the hearty commendations of the enlightened farmers to whom it was addressed.

among others, on the "Form of Ships." A papersupon this subject prepared by Mr. Scott Russell was read, the conclusions of which are deemof great importance, and if they be confirmed, and we see no reason why they should not, they will change the system of ship-building over the whole globe. The favorite old principle of giving a good full bow and a long and slender run has been familiarly described as "a cod's head and a mackerel's tail." The experiments lowing letter and account of sales; prove that this form should be exactly reversed!

The great impediment to the speed of a vessel is her raising a great wave of resistance at her bows, the effect of which is to keep her back in the water as much as if she were deeper by the depth of the wave thus raised. To diminish this resistance, the force of her water line should correspond to that which the water could make on her side, and it is found, contrary to previous ideas, that the place of greatest width should be behind the centre of the vessel. Thus, for example, it a steam vessel were required to be built to go 17 miles per hour through the water, er 25 feet per second, her length must be from her greatest section to her bow one hundred and twenty feet, and from her greatest section to her stern eighty-five feet. Between these two parts cise curve to be given to the fore and after portions, though easily obtained practically, cannot be shown without an engraving In one of the but different in shape, being formed according to seems to have been about the quantity of one of the new theory, showed a resistence of only 52 the lots, would be $120. lbs. much less than one half! Is not this worth attending to by our ship builders? Family Medicine. SIR-I have used Lorraine's Pills in my family as a family medicine, and I would most earnestly rec ommend them to all persons, as the best medicine that can be procured. I would not be without them -they operate mildly, and never fail to give immediate relief.
